William Gween Ends His Existence by the Rope Route.

HE LISTENS ATTENTIVELY TO PRAYERS OF CHRISTIAN WOMEN WHO VISIT THE JAIL

Then Retires to His Cell, Writes a Note and Hangs Himself to a Water Pips-Sad and Untimely Death of a Young Man Whose Life Should Have Had a Different Sinding ... How the Deed Was Crushed under a weight of sin awakened to a realization of the situation he was in and hoperess of the future which held out no promises to him. William Gween died in the county jail last night, by his own hand. He was admitted into the jail December 16, having been sent over from the mayor's court for 30 days. Gween stole a watch from his rocmmate Theodore Koon z in this city. He was arrested in Alifance for drunkenness and papers were found upon his person which identified him as the man wanted in Can-ton for stealing the watch and he was held by Alliance authorities until the arrival of Officer Joe Wielandt who brought him to this city to answer to the charge of petilarceny. He pleaded guilty and Mayor Blake sent him to jail for 30 days.

While in jail he has not exhibited any signs that he was tired of his earthly existence and he was the last man in the jail who would have been picked out as tikely to count suicide. His determination of the property of the sent has been picked out as tikely to count suicide. His determination of the sent picked out as the sent picked ou tion must have been reached shortly before the deed was committed. During Wednesday afternoon, a number of Christian Temperance Union ladies were in the juli holding services. During the time they are in the juli the prisoners remain in their cells and the services are held in the hallways. Yesterday after-noon's services were particularly im-pressive. While they were being held Gween was in a cell with John Richard. Gween was in a cell with John Richard The two listened attentively to the ser-MAKING INQUIRIES.

While Richard and Gween were in the cell, the latter asked the former how Joseph Lacock of Waynesburg had com-mitted suicide August 11, 1892. Richard explained that the act was committed in cell next to the one occupied by Lacock used the chain on his bunk with which to choke himself.
"Why didn't he tis it up on that water pipe?" said Gween.

ipe?" said Gween. Richard and Gween talked in whispers for some time and finally, shartly before 4 o'clock the women left the prison. A game of cards was then proposed and Gween entered into the spirit of the occas sion for a short time. Cards, however, did not appear to have any charm and he soon quit the game. Getting his little oil lamp he secured a match from one of the prisoners and retired to his cell. He call ed to John Quey, a prisoner, to shut the outer door of his cell, as he wanted to be aloge for awaile. He borrowed a lead pencil from Quy and retired to his coli.

Quay closed an door after him.
What happened in the cell can only be concluded upon by the state of things found one hour later. Whether the man's heart was touched by the prayers of the Christian women will not be known. His awakened conscience prob bly made him miserable and instead of looking on the bright side of life and determining to lead a better life, he gave up all hope of being a good citizen and preferred to die in his

At 5 o'clock John Wright of Massillon, one of the hall man, went to Gween's cell to lock him in. Opening the outer door he called through the bars: "Are you in?" There was no response but Wright thought that Gween was playing possum and locking the call, proceeded to lock the remainder of the prisoners in.
About ten minutes later John Richard went around to get the tin cups. Pser-ing into Gween's cell he saw him appar-ently standing on the end of his bunk, with his head and shoulders against the corner walls. Richard received no an-swer and by a closer inspection discov-ered the rope around Gween's neck, which supported him in an upright posi-

Richard immediately gave the alarm and Turnkey Rigier entered the jult and cut Gween's body down. Life was extinct, though the body was still warm.

Gween had secured a piece of rope from the elevator which is used to get food into the fail. A new rope was put in a short time ago and in some manner Gween got hold of a piece of the old rope. He had acted upon the suggestion he gave Rich-ard and had tied one end of the rope to a joint in the water pipe which runs into the cell. The other end be placed around his neck, got onto his bunk and then stepped off. He died of strangulation.

GWEEN'S ADVICE.

On a chair in the cell was found a letter written by Gween before he committed the deed. It was written on a piece of paper torn from a pass book. The penci side the little oil lamp. Following is the message from the dead: CANTON, OHIO.

DEAR FRIENDS: I will write you a few lines in Frendship in my few days in this would of wasted time. I am tired of liv-ing in this would of sin I have been a very unlucky Boy in the last three or four years. I have been a Boy at one time that was well thought of But that time is past and gone (as the poet says) fallen to low to bear another fall. I was out of a home when I was twelve years Old. My Mother God bless her she was as a Mother as ever walked on earth, but she is gone gone to heaven to where she is happy and where I hope I will meet her in Eternal Rest. Now if I am taken house dead try and do the right thing and never drink. This is my advice This is to Johnathan M. Gween, Maivery, Carroll Co., Ohio.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

No signature was attached to the letter and there was no date marked, but it was written by Gween after retiring to his cell yesterday afternoon, he having borrowed the pencil for that purpose. When Coroner Openhimer had answered a summons to the jail, he viewed the remains and took charge of the body. Shere iff Krider sent a telegram to Gween's brother at Malvern, informing him of the suicide. When the coroner took charge of the body he examined the cell and found a testament and some tracts, which had been given to Gween by the Coristian women during the afternoon. Gween had made a request for a bible and one of the ladies gave him the testament saying she bring him a bible next time she

Testimony of prisoners in the jail was taken and the verdict rendered by the coroner will be suicide by hanging.

GWEEN'S LIFE AT MALVERN. A News Democrat reporter while at Malvern last night took occasion to investigate into Gween's life and doings at that place. He was 23 years old, and the son of James Gween, now residing at that village. He has several brothers and one married sister there. About two years ago he received $400 from his deceased mother's estate, and since then he has squandered every cent of this small for-tune. He resided with his brother Henry while employed in the clay mines, but wa some time ago unceremoniously ejected from the residence of this brother because he tailed to pay his board. Since then he has been drifting around, working until he could secure a small sum of money, and then squandering it in drink. Deceased is a nephew of Postmaster Van ceased is a nephew Gween, of Malvern. The remains were taken to Malvern for burial. The funeral will probably take place from the residence of his brother Henry, Gween's father being unable to bury him.

Street-car drivers and others who are constantly exposed to all kinds of weather, and cannot find time to lay by, should ever bear in mind this plain fact that Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cures cough and colds. It is unequalled.

A PUBLIC LOSS.

VERSALLY REGRETTED.

He Was a Prominent and Public Spirited Citizen, Well Versed in All That Concerned the People's Welfare--- The Funeral Arrangements.

A few minutes before the NEWS, DEMO. CRAT forms were placed upon the press Vriday afternoon the spark of life that has animated the body of Dr. Lewis Slusser for more than seventy-two years went out,and Canton lostone of her best known, best informed and most public spirited citizens. Dr. blusser was born in Canton. and was the second son and third child of John Siusser, whose father, Philip, came to America from Europe in 1805. He at, tended the public schools in Canton until tended the public actions in Canton until his boyhood days were well spent and then took a three years' course in Jefferson college at Canonsburg, Pa. His health failed him, and the verdict of the people at the time was that consumption would claim him in less toan two or three years at most. He went to Georgia, took plenty of outdoor exercise, taught school and studied and soon began to regain his lost vigor. He then took a course of lectures at the National Medical college at Washington, D. C. For two years he then re-mained in Canton practicing his profes-sion under instruction, and in 1845 he re-ceived a graduate's diploma from the Ohio Medical college at Cincinnati. He began regular practice at Canal Fulton in 1849, and continued until the war broke out in 1861, when he cutered the service as sur-seon of the Sixty-Ninth Onio Infantry. He was afterward made Medical Director of the brigade and then of the division. Whea his regiment was mustered out the Duetor was commissioned as surgeon in the foavils army corps of the 26:n Oxio Infantry, then at New Orleans. He was afterward sent to the Mexican border, and remained in the service until 1895, when he received his discharge and came home to Cauton. He practiced medians here until 1873, when he was elected Medical Superintendent of the Cleveland Iusane Asylum, which position he beld until 1876, when he resigned and resurned to Uanton, resuming his practice until 1889, when a paralytic stroke estaed him to retire. Since then he has dever been very strong, but he was about and did considerable literary work until a couple of weeks ago, Doctor was commissioned as surgeon to literary work until a couple of weeks ago, when his system suffered a general break down and gradually he grew weaker until Thursday he ispeed into unconsciousness, and at 3:45 o'clock Friday he breathed

Dr. Slusser was twice married. His first wife was Miss Sarah, daughter of Dr. Joseph Pierce, who died in 1863, while with her husband in the army at Nashville. His second wife was Miss Helen Ricks, daughter of Judge Ricks of Massillon, who survives him. They raised two popular and charming daughters out of five children born to them, Mrs. Stanley Igos and Miss Lucile Sinsser.

Dr. Slasser was one of the most prominent men in this section of the state. He was an old pioneer, a prominent member of the Old Settler's Association, and he has always been prominently identified with every interest calculated to benefit the people of the community. He served two terms in the Olio Legislature before the war, and took an active part in the the war, and took an active part in the deliberations of that body. For many years he has been making a study of the listory of this section of the state, with no intention of publishing the results of his research, but his death occurred before the work was completed. He has always taken a great interest in all educationa matters, and was exceptionally well in-formed. He has been one of the most valued contributors to the columns of the NEWS-DEMOCRAT, and the articles from his pen upon subjects of a historical nature, having a local interest, were always read with extreme interest. Dr. Slusser's life has been a very successful one in all respects, and he will be sadly missed by his large circle of friends and by the community in general.

Two sisters, Mrs. Madison Raynolds and Mrs. David Zullars, and one brother, Mr. Samuel Slusser, survive their brother. For some years previous to his death Dr. For some years previous to his death Dr. Slusser was a firm believer in the practice of cremating the bodies of the dead. He advocated this practice as a matter of public health in the medical societies to which he belonged. It was not a mere whim on his part, but a sover judgment, deliberately rendered, that such a disposition of the remains of the dead should be made. All of his intimate personal e made. All of his intimate personal friends have frequently heard him advo-cate this practice. He left several written requests, and in other solemn and im-pressive ways, pledged his family and friends to see that his wishes were carried out. He had even selected and corre-spended with Mr. Sampson, the owner of the Pittsburg crematory, notifying him of having left such a request to have his remains cremated at his instituon. He exacted a personal pledge from loctor, Philips and Dr. Fraunfelter, bis most intimate professional associates, to see that his wishes were carried out, he would take his remains to Putaburg and see that they were incinerated. In accordance with these repeated requests the family, including his brother and sisters, all concur in the propriety of ob-serving them and they will be carried out.

The funeral services, to be conducted in accordance with his directions and re-quests, will be held at the family residence on next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The remains will be taken to Pittsburg Dr. Phillips and Mr. McCrea.

JOHN PALMER'S SUIT.

He Sues the Magnolia Board of Education for Putting Him Out of the School. Attorney John Palmer, of this city, today commenced sult in common pleas court against the Board of Education of Magnolia, for $112 for breach of contract. The petition asserts that Palmer on August 2, 1892, entered into a contract with the Board to teach the Magnolia school for $45 a month. He taught until October 20, when the Board summarily dismissed him and refused to let him teach out the bal-ance of the term. The fall term of the school has now closed and Palmer proposes to make the Boerd pay bim just the same as if he had taught out his contract. The petition asserts that he was thorough ly qualified to teach and was doing good work and that he removed without cause. He asks for $112.

A Sad Hunting Affair Near Newton Falls. Daniel Lechleitner, aged thirty five years, was accidentally shot and fatally wounded by Henry King, a wealthy resident of Newton Falls, about four miles east of that place Thursday afternoon. A fox hunt was in progress, participated in by nearly all of the farmers of the community for miles around. Lechleitner was several yards in advance of King, who had his Winchester rifle full cocked. A branch of the tree caught the trigger of the rifle, discharging it. The builet hit Lechleitner below the shoulder blade and passed through his body, leaving it beneath the short ribs. Lechleitner can not live. King is frantic with grief. Lechleitner was the tenant on one of King's large farms, and the two were very warm

Adam Hoffman, a man employed in John Zerbe's saw mill at North Industry, was instantly killed by a Valley freight train last evening. He was a married man and leaves a wife and two children He was quite deaf. The accident occurred on the Richard branch of the ratiway running up to the Wade coal mines near North Industry, about 5:30 c'elock in the North Industry, about 5:39 o'clock in the evening. The train was south bound and was making a run down from the mines after coupling on some cars loaded with About 5 o'elock Elmer Grove, Ira Davis and Hoffman left town walking north of the village. The two former men are miners and were bomeward bound, Hoffman was intent upon visiting his father, Fred Hoffman, who resides along the Richard branch. When the branch was reached Richard left his companions and started down the track. He walked some distance when the engine with its train of beavily loaded coal cars came along at a rapid rate. The engineer sig-natled the man walking upon the track, but he failed to hear the warning and it was too late to stop. In another minute the engine struck him and he was ground nto an almost unrecognizable mass. The remains were picked up by an un-dertaker and taken to North Industry.

Coroner Openhimer was summoned and he took the testimony of Emer Grove.
The remains will be interred at North Industry. The Coroner attaches no blame to the railroad company, as the man was deaf and failed to hear the engineer's signal of warning.

PERIAL BRICK WORKS.

Horrible Accident to a Workman-He Attempts to Clean Out the Pans and a Fellow Workman Starts the Machinery

A terrible accident occurred at the works of the Imperial Shate Brick Co. on South Markets rest extension about 11 o'clock this morning, that may attend with very serious results. The victim, who now lies at the Autiman hospital with both lies at the Aultman hospital with both legs crushed and mangled in a frightful manner, was John Mish. Mish was an employe of the works, and this morning he was engaged in cleaning out one of the pans in which the shale is mixed up, the work being necessary owing to the cold weather which had frozen that which had been left in from the last batch. A companion laborer had been assisting him in the work but he had gotten out of the pan and gone around the other side. He could not see Mish and, supposing he had gotten out, he started the machiners in motion. out, he started the machiners in motion.

Mish was thrown into the machiners between some heavy iron bars that extend ver the pan and before anyone knew of his perilous position and could stop the machinery he was fearfully crushed and mangled. His right leg was broken be-tween the knee and hip and again between the knee and ankle and the knee was crushed. The left foot was also crushed almost out of all semblance to a human foot. Mr. Mish has just built himself a deasant home near the works and he was aken over to his residence and Drs. Post and Portman called. It was deemed advisable to have the patient removed to the Aultman Hospital and Sbilling's am-bulance was called and he was taken out at 12 o'clock. An effort will be made to save his legs and feet from amputation.

MORE COMPLAINT ABOUT MISHLER

C. W. Kimmel Says He Got Drunk on Money He Gave Him to Pay His Shor Bill.

C. W. Kimmel, a merchant residing at Mishler Station, called at police head-quarters this morning and stated that he would like to meet L. G. Mishler, the alleged horse thief. Accompanied by a News-Democrar reporter he called at the county jail and was allowed to speak with the prisoner. He alleges that on Monday last Mishler was in his store at the above village and stated he would leave for village and stated he would leave for Canton that day. Mr. Kimmel owed a bil in this city amounting to $20 at J. D. Frank's shoe store, and he gave Mishler the money with which to pay the bill for him. Mishler gave him a receipt for the money and went away. It appears that the man shortly after coming to town went to the store, but not flucing Mr. Frank in, went out again and got drunk and the next day was arrested by Marshal Gentry. Mishler is said to be the possessor of considerable property in Akron, where he is well
